

Self-Introduction

Hi everyone, my name is Zhang Yunjian. I'm the team leader of our group, and I have a strong background in programming and mathematics, which helps me a lot in both problem-solving and project organization.

I'm especially passionate about AI and deep learning, and I enjoy exploring how intelligent systems can learn from data and make meaningful decisions. My technical interests often lead me to work on projects that combine algorithm design with practical implementation.

In our current project, I'm responsible for overall coordination, task planning, and making sure our team meets both our functional and technical milestones.

Looking ahead, I hope to pursue interdisciplinary research, where I can apply computing and AI techniques to other fields like healthcare, education, or science. I'm excited to work with all of you and to grow through this collaborative experience.